

Is reading short stories a good habit?

1213 4B Kitty Poon Ching Man

Why is reading short stories a good habit for students to have?

Just like novels, there are different types of short stories, such as adventure stories, detective stories, horror stories, romance and science fiction. However, unlike novels, short stories have a set length and there are no linkage between chapter and chapter. Therefore, readers can stop whenever they want to take a break. Besides, readers can go through one session of short stories in a very short time. Because of the limited words of short stories, we can read different types of short stories to gain the knowledge from different books.

If we can read as many short stories as possible, it will be helpful for our academic studies. For example, it can stretch our imagination and help with language. It helps us to learn more vocabulary and our grammar will be better. Therefore, I suggest that students should keep reading short stories every day as it does not take a lot of time. We can read short stories when we are on the bus or before bed time.

If you want to read short stories, you can find them in school library or public library. To begin with, you can choose the story type you like and develop the reading habit gradually.

Reading short stories has a lot of benefits. So let us read short stories now.

(228 words)

Reading short stories is good for you

4B Zhao Chi Ching (1213)

Do you like short stories? Do you read short stories everyday? If you do, congratulations to you. You have a good habit.

Short stories are not only suitable for kindergarten students. It is also suitable for primary pupils and secondary students too. Short stories are welcomed by so many young people. They read short stories in all the free time. Story and life are in harmony together.

There are many types of stories, such as adventure stories, detective stories, horror stories, romance and so on. I think many readers like them. Fictional stories like horror stories are very eye-catching. Romance stories are so sweet. Romance stories are girls' favorite because romance stories are always about the happy life between a boy and a girl. They live very happily. Many girls want a boy like the Jack in the movie Titanic to love them very much. As Hong Kong people are very busy, they need to go to school and they need to work hard. They enjoy reading short stories very much, because they can finish the short stories with little time.

Benefits of reading short stories? So many! Reading short stories can help with language. For example, if you often read short stories, you will learn more grammar and a lot of vocabulary. I think it is good for our English. Do you want to stretch your imagination? Read more short stories. Short stories can bring us fun, make us laugh and make us relax.

If you want to read more short stories, you can go to the school library or the public library. You can borrow story books to read.

Quick! Don't wait! Read more interesting stories with your friends and your classmates. Good habit can make you succeed! (268 words)