Planning a Chinese New Year Party

By S.3A Chan Ka Yan

- A We're going to have a class Chinese New year party very soon. Let's start making plans for the party. First, let's talk about decorations?
- B Hmm ... we can put some Spring Festival couplets on the walls.
- C That's a good idea. We can also hang some ribbons and lanterns from the ceiling.
- B It must be very beautiful, don't you think?
- A Great! Let's move on to the next point. What types of food should we bring?
- C It is an important question. Let me think ... oh, yeah, I think we can bring some salad, sandwiches and snacks.
- B I would like some pudding and fruit juice. Can we bring that?
- A Of course. But, ... well, it's a Chinese New Year party. How about some Chinese New Year food, such as the 'year cake' and radish cake?
- B Oh yeah, you're right! ... Okay, we have talked about food. Now, how about the games?
- C I suggest 'The Name Call' and 'Hide and Seek' . What do you think?
- B Err ... I don't think they are good for us, because our classroom is not big enough to hide so many people. Also, we are not kids any more, right?
- A How about 'Guessing the Riddles' and 'Treasure Hunt'? I think it's funny and meaningful.
- C I prefer riddles to treasure hunt, because Guessing the Riddles' is really an interesting game.
- B Why not choose both games? I think that is the best solution.
- A I agree with you. We let them group freely with their friends when we play the games and group activities.
- C We can also invite them to put on special dress.
- B That's a good idea. We can dress as vampires, witches and goblins ... It's amazing.
- A Everything is wonderful, but we should advise them not to be too sexy, haha!
- C Oh! We almost forget to talk about the prizes for the games.
- B Don't worry about that. I have done it. We can give out five awards. It has the best team spirit award, the best group champions, and the gold, silver and bronze prizes.
- A That's right. But I want to add a point. First, the food must be fresh and the games must be safe.
- C I agree with you. I think that's the end of our discussion about the new year party.
- B Thank you very much.
- A Thank you.
- C Thank you.
