

A Personal Letter

(Giving Advice and Suggestions)

By Chan Ka Yan

Dear Chris,

Hi, how are you? I am glad to share with you my opinions about how to help you solve your problems, which make you feel unhappy.

First, you say your mother insists that you get good grades. I think you should talk with your mother and tell her what you think as soon as possible. Actually, I think your mother makes a serious mistake. In fact, grades don't mean everything. About your homework, if I were you, I would make a timetable so that I can have more free time to take part in some extra-curricular activities. If you want to have more friends, you can share common interests with your classmates or make some pen-friends.

At last, I want to share some ideas about how to relax. When you have too much stress, you can do some sports or shout loudly.

That's all my suggestions. I hope the suggestions will be helpful to you.

Yours sincerely,
Chan Ka Yan
The Editor

(164 words)

